the human body represents the perfect element for relating communities of the living with the divine this is clearly evident in the mythological stories that recount the creation of humans by deities among ancient and contemporaneous societies across a very broad geographical environment thus parts of selected human body parts or skeletal elements can then become an ideal proxy for connecting with the supernatural as demonstrated by the cult of the human skulls among neolithic communities in the near east as well as the cult of the relics of christian saints the aim of this volume is to undertake a cross cultural investigation of the role played in antiquity by humans and human remains in creating forms of relationality with the divine such an approach will highlight how the human body can be envisioned as part of a broader materialization of religious beliefs that is based on connecting different realms of materiality in perceiving the supernatural by the community of the livings case studies on ritual aspects of funerary practices is presented emphasising the varied roles of body parts in mortuary rituals and as relics other papers take a wider look at regional practices in various time periods and cultural contexts to explore the central role of the corpse in the negotiation of death in human culture why would anyone seek out the very experience the rest of us most wish to avoid why would religious worshipers flog or crucify themselves sleep on spikes hang suspended by their flesh or walk for miles through scorching deserts with bare and bloodied feet in this insightful new book ariel glucklich argues that the experience of ritual pain far from being a form of a madness or superstition contains a hidden rationality and can bring about a profound transformation of the consciousness and identity of the spiritual seeker steering a course between purely cultural and purely biological explanations glucklich approaches sacred pain from the perspective of the practitioner to fully examine the psychological and spiritual effects of self hurting he discusses the scientific understanding of pain drawing on research in fields such as neuropsychology and neurology he also ranges over a broad spectrum of historical and cultural contexts showing the many ways mystics saints pilgrims mourners shamans taoists muslims hindus native americans and indeed members of virtually every religion have used pain to achieve a greater identification with god he examines how pain has served as a punishment for sin a cure for disease a weapon against the body and its desires or a means by which the ego may be transcended and spiritual sickness healed when pain transgresses the limits the muslim mystic mizra asadullah ghalib is quoted as saying it becomes medicine based on extensive research and written with both empathy and critical insight sacred pain explores the uncharted inner terrain of self hurting and reveals how meaningful suffering has been used to heal the human spirit perceptions of the body and sacred space in late antiquity and byzantium seeks to reveal christian understanding of the body and sacred space in the medieval mediterranean case studies examine encounters with the holy through the perspective of the human body and sensory dimensions of sacred space and discuss the dynamics of perception when experiencing what was constructed represented and understood as sacred the comparative analysis investigates viewers recognitions of the sacred in specific locations or segments of space with an emphasis on the experiential and conceptual relationships between sacred spaces and human bodies this volume thus reassesses the empowering aspects of space time and human agency in religious contexts by focusing on investigations of human endeavors towards experiential and visual expressions that shape perceptions of holiness this study ultimately aims to present a better understanding of the corporeality of sacred art and architecture the research points to how early christians and byzantines teleologically viewed the divine source of the sacred in terms of its ability to bring together but never fully dissolve the distinctions between the human and divine realms the revealed mechanisms of iconic perception and noetic contemplation have the potential to shape knowledge of the meanings of the sacred as well as to improve our understanding of the liminality of the profane and the sacred body and sacred place in medieval europe investigates the medieval understanding of sacred place arguing for the centrality of bodies and bodily metaphors to the establishment function use and power of medieval churches questioning the traditional division of sacred and profane jurisdictions this book identifies the need to consider non devotional uses of churches in the middle ages dawn marie hayes examines idealized visions of medieval sacred places in contrast with the mundane and profane uses of these buildings she argues that by the later middle ages as loyalties were torn by emerging political economic and social groups the church suffered a loss of security that was reflected in the uses of sacred spaces which became more restricted as identities shifted and europeans ordered the ambiguity of the medieval world awakening to this ancient sacred science ancient peoples the world over understood that individual consciousness is rooted in a universal field of consciousness and is therefore eternal surviving the passing of the physical body they engaged in spiritual practices to make that transition maximally auspicious these practices can be described as a kind of alchemy in which base elements are discarded and higher levels of consciousness are realized the result is the creation of a vehicle a soul body that carries consciousness beyond physical death these spiritual preparations are symbolized in the vedic egyptian and hebraic traditions as a divine stairway or ladder a step by step path of ascent in which the practitioner raises consciousness by degrees until it comes to rest in the bosom of the infinite thereby becoming immortal this spiritual process explains the reincarnation of the dalai lama for example whose reincarnation is confirmed in infancy through physical and spiritual signs indicating that the consciousness has been carried from one lifetime to the next in creating the soul body robert cox maps the spiritual journey of consciousness behind this sacred science of immortality and reveals the practice of creating a soul body in detail he also shows that this ancient spiritual science resembles advanced theories of modern science such as wave and particle theory and the unified field theory and reveals that modern science is only now awakening to this ancient science of immortality long ago the ancestors of the greeks romans and hindus were one people living on the eurAsian steppes at the core of their religion was the shamanic trance a natural state but one in which consciousness achieves a profound level of inner awareness over the course of millennia the indo europeans divided and migrated into europe and the indian subcontinent the knowledge of shamanic trance retreated from everyday awareness and was carried on in the form of myths and distilled into spiritual practices most notably in the indian tradition of yoga j nigro sansonese compares the myths of greece as well as those of the judeo christian tradition with the yogic practices of india and concludes that myths are esoteric descriptions of what occurs within the human body especially the human nervous system during trance in this light the myths provide a detailed map of the shamanic state of consciousness that is our natural heritage this book carries on from the works of carl jung and joseph campbell to show how the portrayal of consciousness embodied in myth can be extended to a reappraisal of the laws of physics before they are descriptions of the world these laws like myths are descriptions of the human nervous system
