migrants and minorities are always at risk of being caught in essentialized cultural definitions and being denied the right to express their cultural preferences because they are perceived as threats to social cohesion migrants and minorities respond to these difficulties in multiple ways as active agents in the pedagogical political social and scientific processes that position them in this or that cultural sphere on the one hand they reject ascribed cultural attributes while striving towards integration in a variety of social spheres e g school and workplace in order to achieve social mobility on the other hand they articulate demands for cultural self determination this discursive duality is met with suspicion by the majority culture for societies with high levels of migration or with substantial minority cultures questions related to the meaning of cultural heterogeneity and the social and cultural limits of learning and communication e g migration education or critical multiculturalism are very important it is precisely here where the chances for new beginnings and new trials become of great importance for educational theorizing which urgently needs to find answers to current questions about individual freedom community cultural affiliations and social and democratic cohesion answers to these questions must account for both political and learning perspectives at the macro mezzo and micro contextual levels the contributions of this edited volume enhance the knowledge in the field of migrant minority education with a special emphasis on the meaning of culture and social learning for educational processes critical race theory crt is virtually unheard of in european scholarship especially among legal scholars law lawyers and race critical race theory from the united states to europe endeavours to fill this gap by providing an overview of the definition and consequences of crt developed in american scholarship and describing its transplantation and application in the continental european context the crt approach adopted in this book illustrates the reasons why the relationship between race and law in european civil law jurisdictions is far from anodyne law plays a critical role in the construction subordination and discrimination against racial minorities in europe making it comparable albeit in slightly different ways to the american experience of racial discrimination anti semitism islamophobia anti roma and anti black racism constitute a fundamental factor often tacitly accepted in the relationship between law and race in europe consequently the broadly shared anti race and anti racist position is problematic because it acts to the detriment of victims of racism while privileging the white christian male majority this book is an original exploration of the relationship between law and race as such it crosses the disciplinary divide furthering both legal scholarship and research in race and ethnicity studies
