creating more positive stories of change those successful stories would replace what we often hear negative narratives of failed and incomplete ventures simply stated these negative narratives are seldom pretty those telling the story will tell their version of the events they will speak of everyones part and how so and so tried to roadblock the change they will speak of the fellow who tried to change everyones attitude they will tell the story of the character who tried to legislate the change and almost created an insurrection they will speak of all the roles they will seldom speak of their own role however depending on how the change unfolded they may pretend to be in the audience of change simply watching and evaluating each act in the drama of change but everyone knows they had a role as well this book is a guidebook to identify the roles everyones role those roles can be characterized as archetypes this book is a guidebook to identify the archetypal roles that are played and must be played during the change process

The Knight 2017-06-23 all suppositions presented in this article have been moving us to better understanding the contents of the unconscious stratum of human psyche the ones which happen to be completely independent either from each other or racial or social factors even if we were to accept jung s theory of dividing man s psyche we think it would be his personal unconscious which contains some very definite individual structure or system meant to define his personal psychological and physiological characteristics because the unconscious sphere of one s psyche directly controls many physiological reactions the personal unconscious should be able to tell everything of one s personality not by examining it through its collective values but in the light of its individual archetypes it should be able to explain everything
