Routledge Companion to Philosophy of Religion 2010-02-25 when gene long editor of kluwer's handbook of contemporary philosophy of religion series first invited me to write the volume on analytic philosophy of religion i accepted with great enthusiasm my only explanation for that enthusiasm now is that i was younger and more naive at the time soon after starting work on the volume my enthusiasm was dampened by the daunting magnitude of the task i began as a sprinter and quickly settled into the pace of a long distance runner although i considered myself well read in the subject i soon discovered that i had a great deal of research to do to be confident that i had considered all of the major contributions to the various discussions issues and of religion as i read more and more problems found within analytic philosophy books and articles i realized that i had rushed into a territory already well trodden by the angels i am greatly impressed by the sophistication and subtlety of philosophical argument that characterize the different debates in contemporary analytic philosophy of religion this volume covers a vast amount of material i have endeavored to provide the fairest possible reading of different authors and in cases where i include my own critical evaluations and develop my own positions i have endeavored to provide the strongest possible interpretations of the positions i criticize

Faith and Philosophical Analysis 2013-05-28 the present volume is a continuation of the series contemporary philosophy as with the earlier volumes in the series the present chronicles purport to give a survey of significant trends in contemporary philosophy the need for such surveys has i believe increased rather than decreased over the years the philosophical scene appears for various reasons more complex than ever before the continuing process of specialization in most branches the increasing contact between philosophers from various cultures the emergence of new schools of thought particularly in philosophical logic and in the philosophy of language and ethics and the increasing attention being paid to the history of philosophy in discussions of contemporary problems are the most important contributing factors surveys of the present kind are a valuable source of knowledge of this complexity the surveys may therefore help to strengthen the socratic element of modern philosophy the intercultural dialogue or kommunikationsgemeinschaft so far nine volumes have been published in this series viz philosophy of language and philosophical logic volume 1 philosophy of science volume 2 philosophy of action volume 3 philosophy of mind volume 4 african philosophy volume 5 medieval age philosophy volumes 6 1 and 6 2 asian philosophy volume 7 philosophy of latin america volume 8 and aesthetics and philosophy of art volume 9

Analytic Philosophy of Religion 2013-03-14 a contemporary introduction to the main topics in the philosophy of religion written by a world renowned philosopher

Volume 10: Philosophy of Religion 2009-12-15 the papers in this collection present a diversity of views on the epistemology of religious belief there is a diversity of views about the intelligibility of particular religious beliefs for example about the reality of god's existence and of miracles there is further disagreement concerning the reasonableness of religious belief itself some contributors argue that locating grounds for believing in god is still a fruitful undertaking both issues raise the problem of the philosopher's position vis a vis religious belief are philosophers in a privileged position to determine either the reasonableness or the intelligibility of religious belief or is philosophy properly understood a descriptive task the papers in this collection present a diversity of views on this issue too drawing on the works of kierkegaard a few of the contributors argue that philosophical description cannot be neatly divorced from religious persuasion whatever their views on these issues however the contributors accept that philosophical discussion cannot proceed very far without attention to what religious believers say about their beliefs and the practices in which they take part

The Philosophy of Religion 1845 an accessible and engaging introduction to the philosophy of religion written with verve and clarity by a leading philosopher and contributor to the field places key issues and debates in the philosophy of religion in their historical contexts highlighting the conditions that led to the development of the field addresses the core topics among them the existence of god the problem of evil death and the afterlife and the problem of religious diversity rich with argument yet never obtrusive forms part of the fundamentals of philosophy series in which renowned scholars explore the fundamental issues and core problems in the major sub disciplines of philosophy

Philosophy of Religion 1990 substantially revised and expanded this is a new edition of a core text for undergraduates students and all those interested in philosophy and religion

Philosophy and the Grammar of Religious Belief 1995 the present collection of writings on postcolonial philosophy of religion takes its origins from a philosophy of religion session during the 1996 annual meeting of the american academy of religion held in new orleans three presentations by purushottama bilimoria andrew b irvine and bhbuti yadav were to be offered at the session with thomas dean presiding and kenneth surin responding yadav unfortunately could not be present because of illness this was the first session ever to examine issues in the study of religion under the rubric of the postcolonial turn in academia interest at the session was intense for instance richard king then at work on the manuscript of the landmark orientalism and religion was present so too was paul j griffiths whose subsequent work on interreligious engagement has been so noteworthy in response to numerous audience appeals revised versions of the presentations eventually were published as a dedicated symposium on subalternity in volume 39 no 1 2000 of sophia the international journal for philosophy of religion metaphysical theology and ethics since that time the importance of the nexus of religion and the postcolonial has become increasingly patent not only to philosophers of religion but to students of religion across the range of disciplines and methodologies the increased internationalization of the program of the american academy of religion especially in more recent years is a significant outgrowth of this transformation in consciousness among students of religion

Philosophy of Religion 1972 an excerpt from the introduction if religion were a normal product of the human reason alone then philosophy would be the sole legitimate organ for determining and interpreting its content if on the contrary it sprung from revelation then reason alone would not be able it is true to have discovered it but after it were in existence it would still be necessary to show that its content is the adequate fulfillment for those religious needs which our reason is compelled to cherish but would not be able of itself to satisfy even in this case therefore philosophy would have a work to accomplish by way of such authenticating the assertion that the content of religion is a mystery is not convincing there can be many facts of religion of such sort that the possibility of their coming to pass may not admit of rational apprehension and yet we should not without exception take offence at this but a mystery the significance of which were not at least susceptible of definition would be a mere curiosity devoid of all connection with our religious needs and on this account an unworthy object of revelation finally if religion were a morbid product of the human spirit philosophy even in that case would find occupation it would have to investigate psychologically and historically the conditions of the origin of this delusion as well as the conditions of avoiding it in the future the principal object of the following reflections is connected with the first point of view above suggested that is we seek to ascertain how much of the content of religion may be discovered proved or at least confirmed agreeably to reason the two other points of view we subordinate to this 2 it is customary to demand faith in contrast with knowledge as the proper organ for the truths of religion such an assertion finds its most exact expression in the intimation that in fact even scientific cognition always rests ultimately upon faith that is to say upon an immediate act of trust in certain absolutely simple and self evident truths which are neither in need of any proof nor capable of it an important distinction is overlooked in the above mentioned view all such ultimate self evident propositions upon which our knowledge is founded are general judgments which do not tell us that anything whatever is or takes place but which only declare what would exist or would have to take place in case definite conditions occur or more concisely they all merely express certain general rules which we are obliged to follow in the combination of the content of our ideas on the contrary those propositions upon which the most special interest of religion depends for example that god is that he has created the world that the soul survives death etc are all of them declarative judgments which assert a definite particular fact with respect to the before mentioned general propositions it may be understood that they are capable of being objects of our immediate insight or evidence for they are nothing but expressions of the forms of activity in which our reason according to its own nature must be exercised
